

QUESTION 11 OF 52: NOT ANSWERED

The main purpose of the passage is to consider an ethical dilemma posed by cost-benefit analysis.

A

It identifies the point addressed in the passage (cost-benefit analysis), but does not describe the passage's main purpose.

B

describe a psychology study of ethical economic behavior.

It identifies the point addressed in the passage (ethical economic behavior), but does not describe the passage's main purpose.

C

argue that the free market prohibits ethical economics.

It identifies the point addressed in the passage (the role of the free market), but does not describe the passage's main purpose.

D

examine ways of evaluating the ethics of economics.

The author introduces the main purpose of the passage, which is to examine the "different views on where ethics should apply when someone makes an economic decision." The passage examines what historical figures Adam Smith, Aristotle, and John Stuart Mill believed about the relationship between ethics and economics.