

QUESTION 37 OF 44: NOT ANSWERED

Which choice provides information that best supports the claim made by this sentence?

A NO CHANGE

By mentioning the “specialized” methods used in repair shops, it suggests that repairing goods is seen as a specialty rather than as a common activity. This connects logically with the “rare” repair shops introduced just before the underlined portion.

B obsolete goods can become collectible items.

It provides information that supports the claim made in the sentence.

C no one knows whether something will fall into disrepair again.

It provides information that supports the claim made in the sentence.

D new designs often have “bugs” that must be worked out.

It provides information that supports the claim made in the sentence.
