

QUESTION 17 OF 44: NOT ANSWERED

Which choice gives a second supporting example that is most similar to the example already in the sentence?

A

NO CHANGE

Compared to the example preceding the underlined portion, it is vague and fails to offer a specific measurement of an additional household item.

a tea cup is about a quarter of an inch.

It offers an example of an additional household item, a "tea cup," with a specific measurement that is one-twelfth of its actual size.

there are even tiny cushions on some.

Compared to the example preceding the underlined portion, it is vague and fails to offer a specific measurement of an additional household item.

household items are also on this scale.

Compared to the example preceding the underlined portion, it is vague and fails to offer a specific measurement of an additional household item.
